DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-12 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Strasser et al. (5,215,785) in view of Hayman et al. (4,156,042).

Strasser discloses a method for coating a hollow body comprising contacting the inner surfaces of the hollow body with a powder mixture containing 80 parts alumina filler with a particle size of 150 microns, 40 parts of a metal donor and activator, AlTi, and NH₄F, respectively being exemplified, the donor and activator being in the form of spherical particles with an average size smaller than 150 microns (col. 3, line 60 to col. 4, line 7). It is noted that the filler and donor of Strasser includes the situation where the filler and donor have approximately the same average particle size since "less than 150 microns" includes values that are "approximately equal to" 150 microns. The AlTi donor contains 50% by weight Al.

Strasser does not disclose a metal halide activator such as a metal halide of the donor metal. However, because Hayman discloses at col. 4, lines 5-22 that AlF₃ is a particularly effective activator for aluminizing by pack cementation in obtaining uniform coatings, it would have been obvious to use this activator to achieve these advantages.

The range of amounts of donor and activator disclosed by Strasser overlaps the claimed ranges. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have selected the overlapping portion of the range disclosed by the reference because overlapping ranges have been held to be a prima facie case of obviousness, see In re Malagari, 182 USPQ 549.

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Strasser in view of Hayman as applied above, and further in view of Warnes et al. (5,989,733).

Use of AlCr donor is not disclosed. However, because Warnes discloses at col. 5, lines 3-13 that such donor is effective for aluminizing by pack cementation, it would have been obvious to use this aluminum donor powder with a reasonable expectation of its being effective for providing the aluminized coating required by Strasser.
